Bay school board rejects bids, requests changes

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis school board is expected to meet for a third time this week to continue discussion on kindergarten classrooms.

Voting Wednesday morning to reject bids opened earlier this week on an eight-classroom project to house kindergarten students, the board agreed to meet as soon as possible to give instructions for redesign of the building.

Approving a motion by Board Member L. D. Carter the board voted to study the kindergarten classroom requirements to see what changes could be made to lower the cost of the project.

Carter said he felt the building was overdesigned and that the board needed to go back to "square one" to get a building that would meet the needs and be in line with construction costs of similar projects along the Gulf Coast.

The board also instructed Superintendent J. D. McCullough to contact other superintendents in the area about costs of kindergarten classrooms and present information to the board members.

Only two bids were received on the original project. Base bids were within $6,000 of each other with Griggs Construction Co. of Gulfport giving a base bid of $433,915 and Tilley Constructors and Engineers bidding $428,000.

Board members Linda Penrose and Carter expressed repeated concerns about the bids submitted and the basic design of the building.

Both Penrose and Carter said they wanted to see a block construction instead of a frame type of construction.

Architect Jules Legard told the board that he stood behind the design of the building and that even with redesign changes the future bid prices possibly would be as much as current bids.

Legard had earlier recommended the board accept the low bid from Tilley with certain changes that would put the price of the building at approximately $400,000.

He also told the board that

Public comment mixed on unit system issue

BY DENA BISNETTE
Although the Hancock County Board of Supervisors has publicly opposed adoption of the county unit system, a number of citizens are supporting the proposal.

Board members heard public comment both for and against the unit system Monday in a special board meeting.

Whether or not the county will convert from the beat system to the unit system will be decided by voters in a June 3 referendum.

Board President A.A. Kellar, after hearing the comments, said board members have fulfilled the requirement of the local and private bill that authorized the vote by providing the Hancock County Election Commission with a recommendation for wording for the June 3 referendum.

He said the supervisors will pro-

June 3 referendum language extracted from House Bill

BY DENA BISNETTE
A June 3 referendum on whether Hancock County should convert to the unit system of government will not contain detailed information on the system and its organization.

The language being used for the referendum will come straight from the local and private bill that authorized the referendum, according to a unanimous vote of the board of supervisors.

The vote was taken at a special Monday meeting concerning the unit system, called after the board learned that the referendum had been set for June rather than November.

Hancock County Planning Commission Attorney John Scaife Jr., who had previously told the board that a referendum worded too specifically could be detrimental because the initial version of the Hancock County unit system might need modification, suggested using the wording from Section I of the bill.

"You don't want to get locked into something you might need to change in six months," Scaife said.

"The language in the bill itself will give you enough for a yes or no vote."

The section reads, "The Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, is hereby authorized and empowered, in its discretion, to have placed on the ballot as set forth below, the question of whether road and bridge maintenance and construction and all other expenditures of public funds shall be performed on a county unit basis and without regard to district boundaries."

"The board shall by resolution call for such election and shall publicize the question as it may determine..."

The board is required to publicize the referendum through legal advertisements in the county's newspaper of record, the Sea Coast Echo, but board members have also stated that they wish to supply the public with as much information on the matter as possible.

The board heard numerous comments Monday from citizens both for and against the unit system.

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner, however, said he believes more information on the unit system should be available before anyone takes a stand on the matter.

"I think we're all missing the point. The reason we are all here today is to work up a formula for the unit system that we can present to the public," Ladner said.

"We can politic for and against it all we want tomorrow. If we do that today, we're wasting time."

The board decided, however, to delay a discussion on how the unit system would be organized in Hancock County if the voters approve it.

State Representative Walter James Phillips said working out the organization of a unit system for the county will take more time than the five weeks available before the June 3 referendum.

Phillips, who introduced the local and private bill to the legislature, said the bill was designed "to leave the board the latitude to design a system compatible with the unique problems of Hancock County."

"I don't believe, in the wildest idea, that this can be implemented in six months. It will take that long to get this all together. As for why, it's because the beats have ongoing projects."

Board President A.A. Kellar said politics will have no place in decisions about how the unit system will be worked out, despite the continued opposition all five board members have expressed.

"I can't see to save my neck where it will be a better system than we have now. I can't see where it would be more cost-effective," Kellar said.

"If the county unit system is voted in, I will do my best to see that it works, but I've got to have more information than I have now to believe it can work here."

After further discussion, Kellar added, "It's a big issue, one that's been around in this state for years. I know in the past the county unit system has been misrepresented, particularly when the media has made comparisons."

"I've never been so totally for something I would misrepresent it."

"We want to weigh this thing carefully. We need to forget about politics, I'll certainly forget about them, and we need to keep an open mind on the county unit system versus the beat system," he said.

WHOSE IN CHARGE HERE?—At the entrance of the March of Dimes 'Jail and Bail' jail Wednesday Hancock County Deputy Steve Carbor leads his 'prisoner,' the honorable high sheriff, Ronald A. Peterson, to the 'slammer' after he was charged with allegedly impersonating a police officer. For a $10 fee a local citizen of your choice can be 'arrested and jailed' in the Jitney Jungle Jail House by calling 467-9800. A judge will pronounce 'sentence' on the person you 'accuse.' The 'subject' will then be given a telephone to raise bail for the March of Dimes. The 'Jail and Bail' is scheduled to continue from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

HELP!—Eddie Murtagh was the first person to be arrested on alleged charges during the March of Dimes 'Jail and Bail' being held yesterday through today. Murtagh's alleged 'charges' were for 'being a good boss' as appeared before 'Judge' Steve Benvenuti, who set his bail at $600. Hancock County deputies, Bay St. Louis and Waveland patrolmen assisted in making the arrests for the March of Dimes fund raiser. Local attorneys are taking turns as judges. The 'jail' is constructed out of coca-cola cases in Jitney Jungle. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

PRAYING FOR HELP—Michael Necaise prays that his 'sentence' will be light as 'Judge' Steve Benvenuti checks his alleged charges during the March of Dimes 'Jail and Bail' on Wednesday morning. Necaise's 'sentence' was light compared to others and he spent only a little of time raising enough bail to be freed from the 'jail' in Jitney Jungle constructed by the Gulf Coast Coca-Cola Bottling Company. All proceeds from the fund-raiser are to go towards the continuing efforts of the March of Dimes to give every baby a healthy start in life. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Papa, it has come time again. A message we do send to let you know, now and forever, our love will never end.

For on this day, three years ago, the beat of your heart did stop.

But the beat of ours goes on and on with the love for our beloved Pop.

As we think of you, we shed a tear for all the things we miss.

And in this poem we send our love, and seal it with a kiss.

Autopsy determines cause of construction worker's death

BY DENA BISNETTE

An autopsy has determined what caused the death of construction worker Charles B. Buel of Pass Christian, but the investigation into the matter is continuing.

According to Hancock County Coroner Harold Stiglet, Buel died from suffocation caused by aspiration of mud and water.

Stiglet said the cause of the death, which occurred April 16, was indicated in a preliminary report on an autopsy performed by Dr. J.D. Rutherford.

Buel, who was working on a drainage culvert on the Hancock Medical Center site off Drinkwater Road, was found unconscious and possibly dead by two other construction workers who had left him alone a few minutes earlier in order to obtain additional equipment.

He was lying in about a foot of water and mud beside the culvert, the coroner said.

State unemployment rate unchanged

JACKSON— The March jobless rate for Mississippi held at 11.2 percent for the third consecutive month, according to Mississippi Employment Security Commission Executive Director Cohen Robertson.

This was a decline of one-tenth percentage point from one year ago when the rate was 11.3 percent.

Place of residence employment stood at 1,008,200 in a labor force of 1,135,700. Persons employed in both agricultural and nonagricultural jobs showed increases over one month ago when the total number of persons employed stood at 995,000.

There were also 23,300 more persons employed than were counted in March 1985. These increases were experienced in spite of a number of individuals left without jobs because of declining oil prices.

Manufacturing establishments provided 222,400 jobs, which represented the ninth consecutive month of employment above 220,000. Nonmanufacturing jobs were estimated at 623,600. Nonmanufacturing establishments have accounted for 600,000 or more jobs each month since reaching the 607,100 level one year ago.

There were 128,088 claims filed in March 1986 compared to 128,046 in February and 138,692 one year ago. There were 6,206 placements made, which represented a 3.8 percent increase over last month.

Former administrator, engineer to speak on county unit system

BY DENA BISNETTE

A former county unit system administrator and a former State Aid Road Program engineer will address the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition Thursday, May 1, at 7 a.m. in the Bay Senior High School Cafeteria.

The meeting will be open to the general public.

James B. Heidel, currently executive vice-president of the Vicksburg-Warren County Chamber of Commerce and Economic Development Foundation. He served as county administrator for Bolivar County for 10 years.

G.B. "Red" Beard is a registered civil engineer who worked with the State Aid Road Program in the 1950s and served as mayor of Forest from 1973-1977. He is now the executive director of Mississippi Concrete Industrial Association.

Heidel and Beard both stated in telephone interviews that they have been asked to provide information on the unit system and how it works.

Heidel said the unit system pools money and equipment and is more economical than the beat system.

The board of supervisors will remain the county's governing body and will serve "as a kind of corporate board."

He said the unit system can be limited or extensive in use, depending on how the supervisors wish to implement the system.

He also stated that the unit system is not as subject to abuse as the beat system, particularly in the area of purchasing.

Bolivar County was 6,000 in the red in 1974 when the board decided to convert to the unit system. The next year, according to Heidel, the county had operated within its budget and had $8,000 left.

He also said that the county was able to operate with fewer employees, but that no one was laid off when the unit system was implemented. Workers lost through attrition were not replaced, and others were transferred to different types of work according to their abilities.

"We had one crew, for example, that we trained to build or work on bridges. Instead of staying in one beat, they moved around as needed," Heidel explained.

Beard said he became involved with county government in the 1950s when he served as State Aid Program engineer for Scott and Jones counties.

He said he later became associated with the Mississippi Economic Council and has evolved into its chief spokesman on the unit system.

"Supervisors have been traditionally opposed to it but that has been tempered recently by the fact that people are becoming more familiar with the unit system and think it's not a bad idea," Beard said.

He said a bill that recently came close to passing in the legislature would have made the unit system mandatory with regard to road and bridge funds, but would not have taken away much of the individual authority of the supervisors.

"Right now, supervisors can make it as much or as little as they wish. It can cover road and bridge, or road and bridge and landfills, or whatever they want," Beard explained.

"The unit system will be as effective in Hancock County as the Hancock County supervisors want it to be."

He said the best version of a unit system for any county would be one "evolved over two to five years with a willingness to change where change is indicated."

"The county unit system is a very vital issue in Hancock County right now," said Chamber President Dick Thomas, "and, since we feel the chamber's main role is to provide the people of Hancock County with as much information as possible

Many famous dishes have come out of the Old West - and one of the most intriguing combinations, Californians would have you remember, is the Hangtown Fry, an egg and oyster dish created during the Gold Rush Days of 1848.

One dusty day, so the old tale goes, a miner who had just 'struck it rich' around Shirlatt Bend rode into Hangtown with a pokeful of gold dust - or was it nuggets? - tossed his fortune down on the counter at the Cary House, and loudly declared that he wanted the 'finest and most expensive meal' they had, as a celebration of his good luck.

When he was told that eggs and oysters were the most expensive items on hand, he ordered the cook to 'fry up a dozen of each' - and sat down to enjoy the first order of the Hangtown Fry. (Incidentally, as you may have surmised, Hangtown's name came from the number of hangings taking place there.)

As soon as the other miners heard of this new dish, they promptly ordered it. And even today, this is a delicious dish for brunch or supper or whenever you're in the mood. It is, of course, an omelet variation, originally made with the small Olympia oysters of the West Coast.

And - you won't have to empty out a whole 'poke of gold dust' to make this dish, as was the case in Gold Rush Days, when food in California was at exorbitant price. In fact, I remember reading somewhere that turnips sold for a dollar apiece!

There are many variations on this recipe, but here's one. Here's:

HANGTOWN FRY

8 to 12 oysters, drained
Butter
6 eggs, well beaten
2 Tbsp. water or cream or milk
Pepper, salt to taste
Crisp bacon for garnish, optional.

That's all there is to it. I prefer to add water to the eggs instead of cream or milk, as the omelet is lighter. In my opinion, milk toughens the eggs in an omelet.

Fry off, or saute the oysters in plenty of butter, and when golden brown, pour over them the well-beaten eggs and cook as you would any omelet - pulling the egg from the side of the pan with a spatula. When the omelet is cooked, but not dried out, roll onto a heated platter, folding over or not as you choose. (Three or more servings.)

In other variations, the oysters are dipped in flour, then in a beaten egg, then in cracker crumbs and strewn atop the omelet. Some cooks simply add the browned oysters to scrambled eggs - it's a matter of choice. I even know one cook who truly deep fries her oysters - as we know fried oysters - crisp and crunchy and serves them along with a plain omelet.

about the unit system."

"Since this is such a vital issue, the time has been changed to 7 a.m. instead of 7:15 a.m., and we urge the public to attend this meeting," Thomas added.

Hancock Insurance Agency will sponsor the Morning Edition, and coffee and doughnuts will be provided.

Further information is available by calling the Chamber office at 467-9048.

Authorities seek drowned man's next-of-kin

BY DENA BISNETTE

Authorities are still trying to contact the relatives of a man whose body was found near the American Legion Veterans Memorial Pier on April 7.

The man has been identified as Raymond Guy Genest, 45, who had been staying in Harrison County prior to his death.

Authorities have determined that his parents are dead and are still trying to find next of kin.

Genest apparently drowned, according to Hancock County Coroner Harold Stiglet.

He had been dead about three days when found.

Stiglet said the investigation into the death is continuing and that more information is expected from an autopsy performed by the State Medical Examiner.

Anyone having information that may help authorities locate Genest's next-of-kin is asked to contact the Hancock County Sheriff's Department or Bay St. Louis Police Department.

In its final program of this rebroadcast season, "Mississippi Roads" travels to Meridian, Jackson, Laurel, Port Gibson, Washington, Gautier and Midnight. The program can be seen at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 29, on Mississippi ETV.

A portrait of Meridian day-care pioneer Walterine Smith is the program's lead story. She draws upon more than 40 years of experience in the child care field to operate two successful day-care centers in Meridian.

Next, "Mississippi Roads" goes behind the scenes at a livestock auction held by the Mississippi Livestock Producers Association in Jackson.

Next, the "Roads" crew travels to the Lauren Rogers Museum of Laurel, where special note is taken of all the special collections, including the baskets and the silver.

For the weekly cooking segment, the cameras focus upon Port Gibson's Old Depot Restaurant, where a special recipe for fried shrimp and catfish is demonstrated.

Religious music is the theme of the performance segment, taped at the homecoming service of the Washington United Methodist Church in Washington, Miss.

Next on the itinerary is a visit to Harriet Portas, a ceramics artist at Singing River Originals studio in Gautier, where almost all the works are models of birds, seashells and other things indigenous to the Gulf Coast.

The air is full of baseballs with the opening of Little League play throughout our area.

This means there will be some of our youngsters walking or bicycling back and forth to the ball fields.

With playing ball on their minds, they sometimes have a tendency to forget to look before crossing a street or edge too far out into the road.

Parents should emphasize the importance of safety first to their children, and motorists can help too by being extremely cautious when they see children.

Speed limits are reduced in playground areas and should be observed by everyone.

We wish all players a successful season.

This is the time of the year when our local farmers begin to appear at the Hancock County Farmers Market at the Fairgrounds on Longfellow.

The market opens on Saturday and Wednesday mornings at 7 a.m. and is co-sponsored by the Hancock County Extension Service and Chamber of Commerce.

Some very good produce is grown in Hancock County.

Sunday is one of two days of the year many folks hate to see come around, and that is clock changing time.

One must remember to advance clocks one hour when retiring Saturday night.

I realize I have made a goof once and many folks keep reminding me about it, but you spring forward in Spring and fall backward in Fall.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON— Once again, the Mississippi Legislature has come and gone and the state's system of compensating injured workers people remains a disgrace, bordering on cruel and unusual punishment of those who may be hurt on the job.

This was supposed to have been the session when something would finally happen to change Mississippi's Workers' Compensation Law, because the traditional opposing parties had reached a compromise on a bill before the 1986 session began.

The compromise bill did not resolve all the shortcomings of the injured workers system, but at least it would have brought weekly benefits up to a level of decency and would have given workers some protection from being fired if they file a compensation claim.

But when the 1986 session quit work April 11, five days beyond the scheduled 90-day session, the compromise workers comp bill was left to die as a result of the deadline system deathtraps operated by certain leaders in the Mississippi House.

This should call attention to how the deadline traps are maneuvered by such key lawmakers as Rep. Jim Simpson of Long Beach, who sits as chairman of the House Rules Committee. He controls the tightly held little group which makes up the House calendar, and in the instance of the workers comp bill, controls the process by which bills can be revived after death under "deadline."

Simpson would attribute the death of the workers comp bill to the House's 18 black members who insisted on all bills being read in their entirety in the week of the Feb. 13 deadline for House action on general bills originating in that branch. Their demand was a protest against treatment of a bill setting a holiday for the birthday of Martin Luther King.

When the House adjourned overnight at 6 p.m. on Feb. 13, a total of 119 bills, including House Bill 800, the workers comp bill, died on the calendar as a result of the deadline. The real truth is that the House, fully aware of the black filibuster for four days, adjourned each day that week at 5:30 or 6 p.m., so as not to miss the nightly party for legislators.

Rep. Bruce Hanson, of Columbus, the key backer of the workers comp bill felt that the measure, because it affected the lives of so many unfortunate workers, would be quickly revived by a resolution in the Rules Committee.

Instead, Simpson, for whatever reason, sat on the resolution to revive HB800, and dozens of other bills left on the calendar, until the very end of the session, when it was too late.

Simpson can very well be charged with culpability in the death of a bill which would have meant hundreds of unfortunate Mississippians hurt or killed from their employment would at last be treated with human decency.

The fate of the workers compensation bill is a good example of the way the self-imposed system of legislative deadlines can be used as an instrument for killing, rather than passing needed legislation.

In fact, the disastrous result of the Feb. 13 massacre should dictate a thorough reform of the deadline schedules.

At the very least, it should require a re-examination of why the "deadlines" were set in the first place and require justification for the limitations placed on how long a bill can remain alive in each legislative session.

A set of deadlines for processing legislation during a 90-day session was recommended by the Eagleton Institute which made a study for the Mississippi Legislature back in 1969.

However, the deadlines recommended by Eagleton were distorted when they were put into the rules by those who controlled the House in the early 70's, some of whom are still around today.

In particular, J. A. "Bud" Thigpen, former Bolivar County representative, and long-time aide to the House speaker, helped install the deadlines to enhance the power of the committee system.

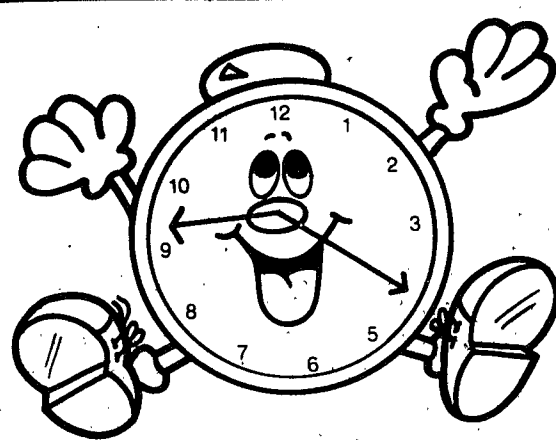

The common complaint is that too many bills are introduced, so many committee meetings that lawmakers can't possibly get around to considering each of them. Conceding that, the logical question is: Why hasn't somebody done something about the bill introduction system and also the number of committees?

Since there is a ridiculous duplication of the bills introduced each session by individual members, all members desiring to introduce a certain type of bill, affecting the same revisions of existing law, could be joined as co-authors on one bill.

It would take, perhaps, the creation of something which a number of states have had for years: a joint legislative council, whose membership is rotated, to coordinate the flow of legislation and conduct interim studies for legislative reform.

Creation of a legislative council was an idea warmly regarded here over 25 years ago, but was rejected by the then-powerful House Speaker Walter Sillers.

Hancock General emergency services commended

April 22, 1986

Dear Sir:

Within the past few weeks members of our family have used the emergency room of Hancock General Hospital on three different and serious occasions.

We found that every person involved went beyond the call of duty to help.

Until our new hospital is complete everyone working at our present hospital is doing so under very difficult conditions and yet, as far as we are concerned, we couldn't have received more professional and loving care.

Sincerely,

Libyan bombing support voiced

April 20, 1986

Sea Coast Echo

To the Editor

Dear Sir,

I agree with Mrs. Cripple's letter to you on April 17.

The bombing of Libya was justified, and a long time coming.

If one of Khadafi's children was killed, and two injured, he has only himself to blame.

He, like the rat he is, went to a safe place before the bombing, so why didn't he take his wife and children too?

As far as our so-called friends and allies, the heads of France, Italy and West Germany, should hang their heads in shame.

The soil of these countries has been drenched twice with the blood of American, British and Canadian service men who gave their lives so they could still be free.

So if these countries are our "friends and allies" I would hate to see what they would do as enemies.

Yes, Mrs. Cripple, I and mine are proud to be Americans, proud of America, and more than proud of a President who has the guts to "put his money where his mouth is."

Respectfully,
Nina S. Garcia

World Population Week

More people exist on less

MISSISSIPPI STATE— The week of April 21-27 is World Population Week to recognize the growing problem of more people existing on a limited amount of resources.

The world population at the end of 1985 was 4.9 billion said Dr. Bob T. Chapin, coordinator of the Land Use Center of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. Another 1.5 million people are born each week. Many of these people are born in countries already having trouble feeding the existing population.

Population trends and world debt problems are important to an agricultural state such as Mississippi.

"In 1975 third-world countries had the money to buy food and fiber from American farmers," Chapin said. "But now these countries have enormous debts and spend more money on defense. This is causing part of our country's problem in declining demand for agriculture."

Population growth rates have declined from about 2 percent in 1970 to 1.7 percent in 1985. Even at this lower rate, world population will not level off until it reaches 11 billion. Chapin said 11 billion people require 30 acres of farmable land but there are only 22 billion acres worldwide.

A worldwide population of six billion is expected in the next 12 years.

Some countries are trying to control their population. China has ordered one child per family.

Eagleton had been followed, no member of the House would be a member of more than two committees. That would mean cutting down the number of committees from 28 to about 15.

Give a hoot.
Don't pollute.

"WE'LL GET THE JOB DONE IN EDUCATION"

Amid the gloom and doom which seems to be smothering state government these days, Mississippians will be pleased to know there is at least one bright spot.

Amid the uncertainty of state government finance, constitutional change, and occasional misdeeds of a few public officials, Mississippians can be certain of one thing:

The man in charge of the state's public school system means business.

In a recent address to an audience of business and economic development leaders, Dr. Richard Boyd, Mississippi's first appointed State Superintendent of Education, made these very clear and very plain statements:

"...It's time to stop talking about education; it's time to get the job done."

"...We have been studied to death; we know what the problems (in education) are."

"...If we can't show a return on Mississippi's investment in the Education Reform Act, funding shouldn't be continued."

Along with those comments, the executive officer of the state's public school system pointed out that we are beginning to see some progress in the reduction of the drop-out rate, in testing of students, in standards for teacher certification, and in other areas.

Dr. Boyd concluded with this clear and convincing statement:

"We will get the job done."

With leadership like this, you can bet we will.

Animal shelter employee gets rude awakening

April 9, 1986

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

I have recently been employed by the Hancock Animal Shelter.

I have always been an animal lover and have always felt that a certain percentage of pet owners were not responsible enough to own these animals.

Since my employment began about 2½ weeks ago, I have been appalled at the irresponsibility of some people.

I have received phone calls from people asking us to pick up whole litters and the mother because "they couldn't take care of them."

I have had people bring in their pets sick or pregnant because they couldn't "afford to take them to the vet."

I have had people bring in strays, mostly young animals that have been dumped and left to fend for themselves.

These animals are usually sick and unadoptable. I have had people bring in adult animals that have been running the streets, scavenging for food, full of ticks and fleas.

Where do these animals come from? Irresponsible humans, owners who will not have their animal spayed or neutered, owners who have gotten tired, for one reason or another, and 'dumped' the animal.

She's 76—a dangerous age

Dear Editor:

Today is my birthday anniversary and I am going to celebrate by saying exactly what's on my mind! It is a delightful experience, for most of us have spent a life time suppressing a desire to vent an opinion.

I am now 76, and that's a dangerous age! Allow me to list as my No. 1 exercise in stupidity the practice that pharmacists have of putting medication in 'child proof' containers.

Here's how it works: Adults with arthritis struggle and become frustrated and angry because they cannot 'push down the middle while lining up the arrows,' so the blood pressure rises to the point of near stroke until a small grandchild or some pre-school kid in the neighborhood is called in to open the bottle.

Kids enjoy doing tricks their elders can't do. The pills are then poured into a screw-top bottle or one with a cork. There must be a lesson in this some place. Do you agree?

It also seems to me that regardless of what a person does or does not do he is liable to get involved in a law suit costing time, money and inconvenience.

The law suit craze is taking this country by storm. It is a phobia. I spend countless hours inspecting the grounds to make sure there isn't a protruding root, a loose brick or perhaps a slick snail in the path and somebody could fall and bring suit.

And what about my wanderer? It is said to be poisonous. The city neutral grounds are full of them, too. I don't think our sales tax can comfortably pay for more law suits.

And then what about the car? Better keep a sharp eye out to see that the seat belts are working satisfactorily. What if a passenger is safely buckled in, an accident occurs that knocks the victim unconscious and unable to release the belt, the auto is on fire, the unfortunate victim dies. Whom should the survivors sue, the owner of the car, the makers of the seat belts, or both?

No wonder I have insomnia. Maybe I should take a sleeping pill—that is, if I can get the top off the container.

School bus stops should be checked on

There is a big problem of bad behavior at some of the school bus stops in Shoreline Park, Hancock County.

They can catch the bus at all corners.

They have said, "Oh, the bus driver will pick us up."

From throwing school books around, to writing on street posts curse words.

Cursing is awful that early in the morning.

Smoking. Children come from many blocks just to smoke.

There's too, slapping, pushing young children around.

Making fires!

Many other things, too.

Forcing younger children to do things they don't want to do. Parents think sending their children to catch the bus is safe—it is not.

In all my years I have not seen so much ugliness before school.

Not from grammar school children, and these are grammar school bus children.

This makes more children not to want to go to school.

Some children are very sick after they get to school.

Problems at home are one thing, but this needs to stop. Somebody is going to get hurt or worse.

Concerned parent.
And this is the United States.

Council studying new ordinances, grants request for tax exemption

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council is considering three new ordinances for adoption.

Bay Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. proposed ordinances Tuesday to control beach bonfires, require covers for dumpsters and require fences around swimming pools.

According to Frankiewicz the ordinances are based on suggestions from citizens, along with input from council members.

"Bonfires are nice but are a real problem with cleanup," he said.

Currently permits for bonfires are issued but no deposit is required.

Frankiewicz recommended the council set a $25 deposit required to get a permit for a bonfire and if the area is not cleaned following the bonfire, the deposit would be used to fund the cleanup.

Another ordinance recommendation called for covers on all garbage dumpsters excluding specified exemptions.

Frankiewicz said this ordinance could help out in areas where trash from dumpsters creates a problem.

According to his proposal exemptions could be granted following consideration of whether or not the dumpster is used for bagged or loose waste, the location characteristics including proximity to residents, frequency of use and pickup and existing physical screening; and hardship conditions covers would create for handicapped and elderly persons.

The third ordinance proposal will require fences to be constructed around all swimming pools for public safety protection.

The council instructed Frankiewicz to gather information from insurance agents on the height requirements of fences around pools to insured.

Frankiewicz also said gates should be kept closed at all times but entry for inspection must also be provided.

Following discussion of the proposed ordinances, council members told Frankiewicz to prepare the ordinances for action on May 6.

Also at the meeting the council heard a request from GTEK Inc. of Waveland for exemption of ad valorem taxes.

City Clerk Edward Favre read the request which stated that GTEK proposes to build an electronic component design and assembly enterprise in the city.

The new enterprise will reportedly provide 10 new jobs for the area with an estimated payroll of $150,000.

The council voted unanimously to approve the request which will be forwarded to the Mississippi Economic Council for its approval.

During the meeting Frankiewicz also recommended a policy for isolated utility extensions.

According to Frankiewicz, the current policy requires owners to connect to sewer at their expense if the sewer is available within 300 feet of the property line, but does not make provisions for isolated residences where the sewer would have to be extended a longer distance.

Water extensions have been on a case by case basis, he added.

Frankiewicz recommended the council adopt a policy to allow $2,000 per sewer service and $800 per water service, up to the customer's property line but all additional cost to be paid by the customer.

The use of "grinder pumps" for remote sewer hook-ups but requiring operating and maintenance costs of the equipment to be provided by the customer was also recommended by the mayor.

He requested the council budget annually an amount for these extensions, beginning for the 1987 fiscal year.

Frankiewicz also said requests for service should be granted on a first come, first served basis until budgeted amount is exhausted.

The council tabled this proposal for further study.

In other business the council asked that the Planning and Zoning Commission study the current minimum lot size for single-family residential lots for possible changes.

Book Review

New novel evokes 'Project Stormfury.'

NEW YORK - When hurricane Elena and her destructive siblings Danny, Juan, and Kate stalked the shoreline from Florida to Texas last year, they brought back terrible memories of Camille, the vicious 1969 storm whose name is still spoken in a low voice along the Gulf Coast.

What was not much noted, in remembering Camille, was that even as she whirled toward Mississippi with 200-mile-an-hour winds and a 25-foot storm tide, government scientists and aircraft were assembling in Puerto Rico for an experimental seeding of a much weaker hurricane Debbie out in the Atlantic.

The Debbie experiment was part of Project Stormfury, an experimental effort to test the hypothesis that seeding clouds in the violent central eyewall would reduce the maximum winds of a hurricane, and mitigate their damage when the storms came ashore.

Camille became one of the worst American hurricanes of record, taking hundreds of lives and scouring the Mississippi shoreline with scars that can still be seen today.

Hurricane Debbie's maximum winds dropped by 20 percent or more in each of two separate seeding runs. That odd juxtaposition of storms, and the irony that a mild hurricane was made milder while one of the worst in history raked the Gulf Coast, lies at the heart of 'Prospero Drill' (January 28, $12.95), a new novel from St. Martin's Press.

In this tale of science and espionage by Carl A. Posey, a British-born scientist fashions an obsession from the lethal experience of Camille, and the positive seeding results from Debbie - an obsession that now, in a fictional experiment called 'Prospero' (after Shakespeare's magician in 'The Tempest'), drives him to seed hurricane Dolly, a virtual reincarnation of Camille.

But obsessed men, in the view of the book's spymaster, Admiral Carney, are also easily manipulated men; the scientist is used to probe the real purpose of all-weather Soviet bombers poised in Cuba.

Inevitably, the threads of deception converge, tragically aboard a crippled hurricane research plane trapped in Dolly's eye.

Like its fictional counterpart, Project Stormfury died (in the early 1980s) of a wide assortment of infections - erroneous reports in Mexico and Cuba that seeding was a CIA ploy to dry up rainfall from passing hurricanes, personality clashes within the American scientific community, a sense among some meteorologists that it had been bad science after all, and the failure to identify clearly what had been the hurricane's natural variability and what had been caused by the hand of man.

The "Stormfury Hypothesis," which once seemed to promise enormous savings and relief from hurricane damage, finally went untested.

But the possibility lives on, briefly, in 'Prospero Drill,' a high-tech thriller that, while fiction, draws from the real Project Stormfury, and the real settings of hurricane research and warning, to tell the story of an experiment blocked for all the wrong reasons, then revived in a final simulation, or "drill."

The story is played out in the violent interior of hurricane Dolly, a category five storm trapped in the Gulf of Mexico, and a hurricane that Prospero's director must seed, against all orders.

Carl A. Posey, author of 'Prospero Drill,' is a long-time science writer and pilot who formerly directed the public information effort for Project Stormfury.

It is his second novel with a Miami setting, and returns Steven Borg, the tough young science reporter from the Miami Herald who first appeared in 'Kiev Footprint,' a story of "star wars" science and espionage.

Point of Law

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q. What steps must a landlord take to evict a tenant who has not paid his rent?

A. A landlord certainly has the legal right to remove a tenant who has failed to make rental payment.

The law requires that a landlord, in order to remove such a tenant, must give the tenant three days notice, in writing, stating that the tenant must either pay his rent or move from the premises.

Three days after the notice is given to the tenant, the landlord may file an eviction action in court to have the tenant removed.

Q. When is a landlord required by law to repair rental property?

A. In most states, a landlord has a general duty to maintain rental property in good repair and in a habitable condition.

In Mississippi, however, the landlord has a duty to repair rental property only in particular circumstances. If the landlord has agreed to repair the property for the tenant, he has a duty to do so.

In addition, a landlord must repair any "common areas" used by all tenants, such as halls, stairways and lobbies.

Furthermore, a landlord must repair any hidden defects in the property. For example, if a landlord knows that a house contains dangerous defective wiring, and the tenant is unaware of this defect, the landlord has a responsibility to repair the wiring.

Q. My husband and I were divorced after 15 years of marriage. He was ordered to pay me alimony for five years, but he has not. Can he be arrested for failure to pay alimony?

If he is under an order of court to pay alimony, and he has the ability to pay, failure to pay the alimony could expose him to contempt of court proceedings.

Lifestyle influences heart disease

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Perhaps the greatest new medical discovery is that lifestyle is very important in causing some of the major diseases in our society today.

Our daily patterns of eating, sleeping, drinking, dealing with problems, exercising and working probably have more to do with the potential hazard of heart disease.

Eating is one of the most important parts of our lifestyle. Eating is also a contributing factor to many diseases, including heart disease.

In fact, six out of the 10 leading causes of death in the U.S. are linked, in part, to improper diet, said Nelda Starks, a nutrition education specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Food risk factors related to heart disease are:

*Too much fat in the food eaten can end up as fatty deposits in veins, arteries and the heart. It lessens the flow of blood.

Too much fatty food may also cause obesity. There is no evidence that the body needs as much fat as Americans eat.

*A high level of cholesterol in the blood has long been associated with heart disease. Most people with heart disease have an increased serum cholesterol level.

Research indicates that one of the factors that contributes to high serum cholesterol is diet—either eating food with high cholesterol levels or food containing saturated fat.

*Americans tend to eat too much sugar and salt. There are indications these are associated with heart disease. U.S. dietary guidelines suggest decreasing consumption of salt and sugars.

*Weight adds to the effect of all of the other risk factors, making them doubly serious. Excess body weight in the form of flabby fat makes more work for the heart, as it must push more blood through more territory.

"People who are overweight often have high blood pressure and higher levels of cholesterol and triglycerides in their blood," Mrs. Starks said. "Reducing weight often cuts down the level of fats in the blood, lowers blood pressure and improves glucose intolerance."

Start today to maintain a healthy heart, she said. The American Heart Association suggests the following regime:

*Eat only as many calories needed to keep ideal body weight.
*Reduce total fat calories.
*Reduce cholesterol-rich foods, if necessary.

*Meet carbohydrate needs with starches rather than with sugars.
*Increase nutrient-dense and fiber-packed foods.

*Avoid fat 'binges' or high fat meals; instead spread fat calories throughout the day.

*Eat breakfast.
*Have regular meals at set times (three or more).

*Take time to fix and serve healthy food in attractive, tasty ways so that meals become more pleasurable.

Healthy eating does not mean unenjoyable meals. Instead substitute something that is more beneficial to the heart's health.

The key phrase is 'Don't give up...modify,' Mrs. Starks said.

Southern Company declares dividend

At their meeting in Atlanta Monday, the directors of The Southern Company declared a regular quarterly dividend of 51 cents a share on the company's common stock, payable June 6, 1986, to stockholders of record May 5.

This marks the 154th consecutive quarter—dating back to 1948—that The Southern Company will have paid a dividend to its common stockholders.

The Southern Company is the parent firm of four electric utilities: Alabama Power, Georgia Power, Gulf Power, and Mississippi Power. The Southern Company's common stock is the most widely held electric utility stock in the nation and is one of the 20 most widely held corporate stocks in America.

ASCS News Farm program signup ends Friday

Franklin A. Gennin reminds farmers that the sign-up period for the wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice programs has been extended from April 11 to April 25 to give producers more time to consider recent program changes.

The acreage reduction requirements are 25 percent for wheat and upland cotton, acres, 10 percent for extra long staple cotton, 20 percent for feed grains and 35 percent for rice.

"Farmers who meet these requirements and report crop acreages will be eligible to receive price support loans and deficiency payments, in addition to land diversion payments for wheat and feed grains," Gennin said.

He said farmers may report their fall-seeded crops when they sign up for the 1986 programs and not have to make a separate visit to the county office to certify. Wheat, oats, barley, rye and other small grains which are not reported by May 1 will be ineligible for program benefits.

According to Gennin, the 1986 programs offer price support loans or purchases at a rate of $2.40 per bushel for wheat, $1.92 for corn, $1.82 for sorghum, $1.56 for barley, $1.63 for rye and $.99 per bushel for oats. The loan rate of 65.40 cents per pound for ELS cotton and $7.20 per hundredweight for rice.

Estimated per bushel deficiency payment rates are: wheat, $1.83; corn, $1.03; sorghum and oats $.45. The payment rate is $.70 per hundredweight for rice.

Land diversion payment rates for the 2.5 percent land diversion are $1.10 per bushel for wheat, $.73 for corn, $.65 for sorghum, and $.36 per bushel for oats. "The 5 or 10 percent optional paid diversion rate for winter producers is $2.00 per bushel."

Gennin said wheat and feed grain producers may request all of their land diversion payments and 40 percent of their projected deficiency payments when they sign up for the programs. Rice growers may request 30 percent of their projected deficiency payments, he said.

Additional details of the program may be obtained from the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office.

Bay Little Theatre schedules auditions

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre reports it will present "Suitehearts" by Wm. Van Zandt and Jane Milnere as its second regular season production.

Director Carol Young, fresh from her producing duties on the season opener, "God's Favorite," will host auditions for "Suitehearts" at 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at the Theatre on Boardman Avenue.

This comedy of errors calls for a cast of five, two women and three men from early twenties to mid-forties.

Ms. Young is searching for a cast who wants to enjoy the best of community theatre. "A sense of humor is the essential quality for 'Suitehearts' actors," she said.

"What this cast will share with the audience is fun, laughter and a sense of well being that all will be right with the world," Young continued.

"Suitehearts" producer Kierstan Byrd will be seeking backstage volunteers at the same time.

Personnel for prompting, props, set construction and decoration, lights and sound are needed.

For more information about "Suitehearts" call 467-2121 or 467-4265.

On financial planners...

The multi-billion dollar financial planning business has an incidence of fraud that is alarmingly high.

Reports are given of con artists swindling the elderly of their life savings. Families seeking wise financial advice and security have lost thousands of dollars to those posing as financial planners.

Stories about the "fraud and abuse" so prevalent in this field should encourage the investor seeking a financial planner to be extremely cautious.

For the estimated 10 million Americans who could use financial planning, here are some tips to follow in finding such services:

"Check out the planner's credentials. 'Registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission' is no assurance that professional standards have been met. State securities agencies and Better Business Bureaus may have information on past activities of a 'financial planner.'"

"Avoid planners who give you few alternatives in your investments. They may be trying to steer you into a fraudulent scheme, or may be working solely on a commission basis."

"Be wary of planners who work from a post office box or telephone answering set-up. Be sure the prospective planner has ties with other professionals, such as lawyers and accountants."

Copies of "Fraud and Abuse in Financial Planning Industry" and other quarterly editions of 'Investor Alert' are available from your local Better Business Bureau or by writing to 'Investor Alert,' NASAA, 2830 S.W. Wanamaker Drive, Suite 5, Topeka, KS 66614.

College prepayment... More colleges are looking at the idea of tuition prepayment plans for parents. While the child is young, parents make a lump sum payment of approximately $5,500.

The school guarantees that four years of tuition will be covered at the time the child attends. If the child doesn't qualify for admission, the money is refunded without interest.

Retail loss and employee theft... Shoplifting by customers is often the first thing to come to mind when retail loss of products is mentioned. However, employee lift more goods than customers.

Employee theft accounted for 43 percent of retail shrinkage in 1984. Shoplifting accounted for 30 percent, vendor theft was responsible for 4 percent, while poor paper work control accounted for 23 percent.

We Salute 4-H Volunteers

NATIONAL VOLUNTEER WEEK

Radio hit to premiere on ETV

Success has not changed Lake Wobegon, Minnesota. The folks there don't seem to mind being talked about. In fact, the local businesses are boosters of "A Prairie Home Companion," the weekly public radio show that put the town that time forgot in everyone's memory.

All of the sponsors of the show—Bertha's Kitty Boutique, the Fearnongers' Shoppe, Bob's Bank, Powdermilk Biscuits and the rest of the gang—are quietly and responsibly prepared for the national television debut of the hit radio program "A Prairie Home Companion" with host Garrison Keillor.

The two-hour special will be simulcast at 8 p.m., Saturday, April 26, on Mississippi ETV and Public Radio in Mississippi (PRM). Viewers should tune their TVs to ETV and then tune their radios to RPM and turn the sound up.

Celebrating the grand opening of the newly restored World Theater in St. Paul—the permanent home for the show since 1978—the television-radio special on the 26th will feature all of the favorite elements of "A Prairie Home Companion," including Keillor's latest news from Lake Wobegon, appearances by regular guests Butch Thompson, Peter Ostroushko and Howard Mohr and special guests Chet Atkins, Johnny Gimble, Jean Redpath and Philip Brunelle.

Pass man sentenced

JACKSON — John L. Heidelberg Jr. of Pass Christian was sentenced April 8 before U.S. Magistrate John Roper in Biloxi.

He pled guilty to failing to file Federal income tax returns for the years 1980 and 1981. He had previously appeared before Judge Roper and pled not guilty for failing to file 1979-1983 tax returns.

Judge Roper sentenced Heidelberg to one year in prison for the year 1980, and 6 months in prison for the year 1981, sentences to run consecutively. The charges for the years 1979, 1982, and 1983 were dismissed in a plea bargaining agreement.

Seventh Aegis cruiser christened

The third U.S. warship to be equipped with the MK 41 Vertical Launching System (VLS), was christened at Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton in Pascagoula Saturday.

The ship, officially named Antietam (CG 54), is the seventh of 13 Aegis guided missile cruisers under contract to Ingalls by the Navy.

CG 54 is the third U.S. Navy ship to be named in commemoration of the Civil War Battle of Antietam in Maryland.

Principal speaker for the ceremony was Maryland's Sixth District Representative, Congresswoman Beverly B. Byron.

Mrs. Byron, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, has also been chosen as the ship's sponsor and broke the traditional bottle of champagne across the cruiser's bow.

Representative Byron has been a Member of Congress since 1978, and chairs the House Panel on Arms Control and Disarmament.

VLS is a multiwarfare missile launching system capable of firing a mix of missiles against airborne and surface targets, greatly extending the ship's missile flexibility.

VLS is modular in design with modules symmetrically grouped to form launcher magazines, located both fore and aft on the ship's deck.

Aegis ships compose the most important shipbuilding program in America today.

Antietam and other ships of the Aegis class will provide the primary protection for the Navy's battle forces well into the next century. Aegis ships are designed to counter all present and projected missile threats to the Navy's battle forces.

The cruiser's Aegis weapons system, the heart of her warfighting capability, is a significant advance in fleet air defense.

Four fixed array radar antennae, mounted on the sides of the ship's superstructure, replace conventional rotating radars, enabling the ship and her crew to "see" in all directions simultaneously.

Aegis cruisers are large ships, 567 feet long, with a beam of 55 feet. Four gas turbine jet engines power the 9,500 ton ships to speeds in excess of 30 knots.

CG 54 is named to commemorate a September 1862 battle near Sharpsburg, Maryland, during which Union forces halted the northward thrust of Confederate troops led by General Robert E. Lee.

A store ship, in service from 1875 to 1888, and an aircraft carrier (CV, CVA and CVS 36), in service from 1945-1973, preceded CG 54 in carrying the name to sea.

Ingalls Shipbuilding, lead shipbuilder for five of the latest classes of Navy surface combatants, has delivered 44 warships into the Navy's fleets since 1975, a major portion of the surface combatants delivered during the period.

As lead shipbuilder for the Aegis program, Ingalls has been contracted to build 13 of the 19 Aegis cruisers authorized since 1978.

The lead ship, USS Ticonderoga (CG 47), was commissioned into the Navy's fleet ahead of schedule in January 1983.

The second ship of the Aegis cruiser class, USS Yorktown (CG 48), was commissioned in July 1984. Both CG 47 and CG 48 recently participated in Sixth Fleet exercises off the Libyan coast.

The Navy's third Aegis cruiser, USS Vincennes (CG 49), was commissioned into the U.S. Pacific Fleet on July 6, 1985, and a fourth ship, USS Valley Forge (CG 50), joined the Pacific Fleet in January 1986. Bunker Hill (CG 52), Ingalls' fifth cruiser, will be commissioned in Boston, Massachusetts, on Sept. 20.

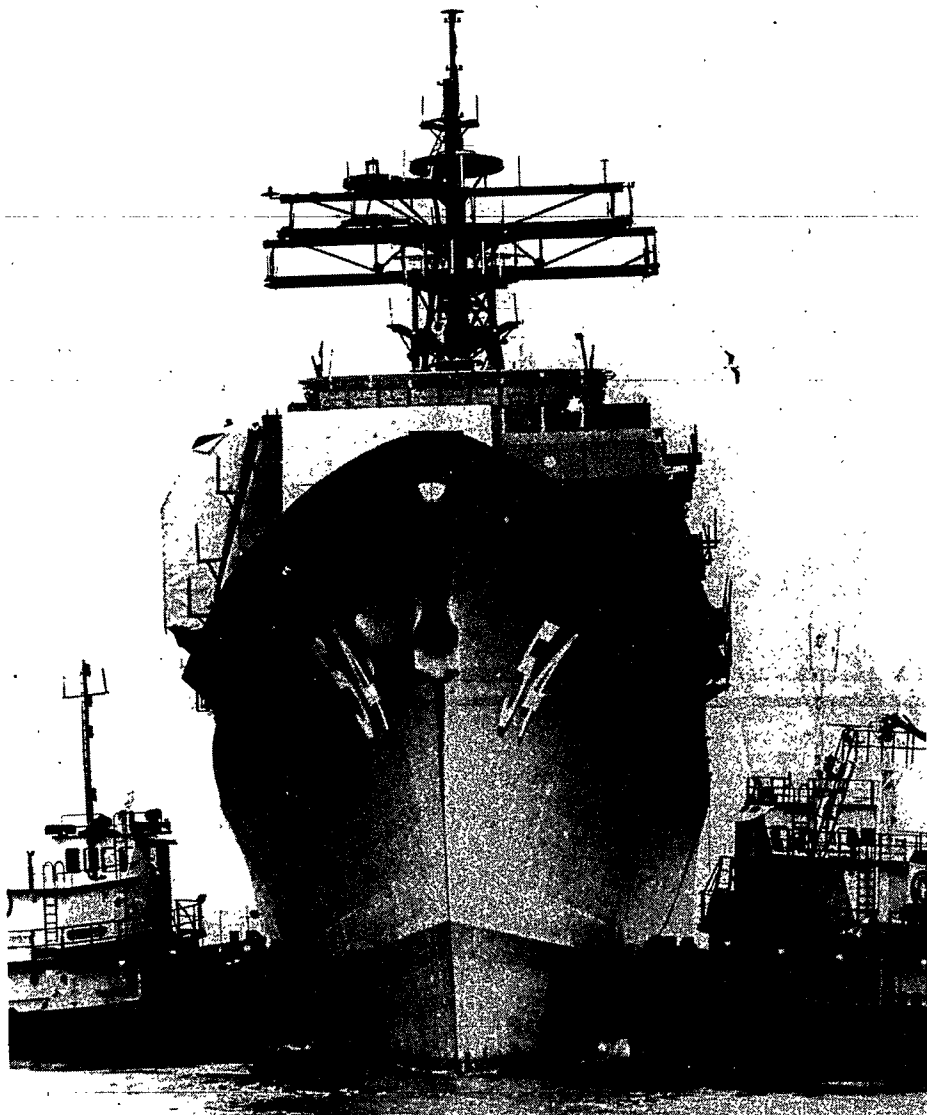

Mobile Bay (CG 53) is in outfitting, and will join the fleet in February 1987.

In addition to Antietam, which will also join the fleet in 1987, Ingalls has six other cruisers in various stages of production.

The shipyard is also building the lead ship of the Navy's new class of multipurpose amphibious assault ships, Wasp (LHD 1), and overhauling three Navy ships, the multimission destroyer, USS Spruance (DD 963), the guided missile destroyer USS Preble (DDG 46) and the submarine tender USS Simon Lake (AS 33).

PUBLISHER OFF TO JAIL—Sea Coast Echo Publisher Ellis Cuevas is escorted to jail by Hancock County Deputy Steve Garber in the March of Dimes "Jail and Bail" fundraiser Wednesday. Cuevas was fined $750 for cruelty to employees by Judge James Tucker Jr. and was required to obtain pledges for contributions to March of Dimes to secure his release. The fundraiser continues today. For additional information call 467-9800. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

CRUISER ESCORT—Pushed by two tugboats, the Aegis guided missile cruiser Antietam (CG 54) moves toward an outfitting pier following her launch in February at Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton in Pascagoula. The ship was christened Saturday by Representative Beverly B. Byron of Maryland's Sixth Congressional District. The ship, named to commemorate an 1862 Civil War battle near Sharpsburg,

Md., is the seventh of 13 Aegis ships under contract to Ingalls by the U.S. Navy, and is the third U.S. warship to be equipped with an advanced vertical launching missile system (VLS). Four Ingalls-built Aegis cruisers are now operating in the Fleet, with two additional ships to be commissioned during the next nine months. Antietam, after outfitting and sea trials, will join the fleet in mid-1987. (Ingalls Shipbuilding photo) been getting a lot of help with road repair, drainage and things like the Uman Avenue Pier, which the city had to abandon because of a costly lawsuit and the county was able to keep it open for us," Raymond said.

Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro told Raymond that the additional cost for a county administrator for the unit system would probably increase taxes.

Kellar said that the city would have to request help through the administrator rather than the board or an individual supervisor. The administrator would then place the request on a priority list.

"If it's going to be left completely out of the board's hands like that, I'm opposed," Raymond said.

Louis Breaux, a resident of Beat Three who lives near Standard, said he hopes any decisions about the unit system will be "based on facts and not on the fiction and dramatizing we see in the papers."

He said one of his concerns is that hiring an administrator and staff will cause additional expense to the county.

"The unit system is designed to allow a supervisor to get out of a ditch with a shovel and become a manager," said Neil Neilson, who told the board he is in favor of the unit system.

Nielson said one of his biggest concerns regarding the unit system is that the public often misunderstands what it is.

"Everything I have heard so far is fire the supervisors and hire an administrator, and that's not what it is," he explained.

The only group endorsement for the unit system that the board heard Monday was from Diamondhead Community Association, which according to Spokesperson Betty Claggett "wholeheartedly endorses the unit system."

Betsy Nolan, a Diamondhead resident, said she favors the unit system.

"I would hope before you say you're against it, you should look into it a little more closely and see if it's best for Hancock County," she said.

Also in favor of the unit system was the Rev. Dwyne Moulton of Bay St. Louis, who said he believes the beat system is "criminal, wasteful and extravagant."

Moulton has appeared before the board on several occasions during the past three years to request a conversion to the unit system.

Among the public officials who addressed the matter was Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr.

He cited several examples of cooperation among beats, particularly in emergency situations such as after Hurricane Elena and Hurricane Juan.

"We feel the county performs best when it works together," he said. "The county is already easing into a unit system on a case by case basis."

Brush up on real estate law

The purchase of a home is the biggest single investment that most Americans ever make; and, the sale of a home can result in the largest capital gains ever realized by many.

In order to make the most of this investment, buyers and sellers should be familiar with real estate procedures, financing methods, and the legal aspects of the purchase and sale.

Here are some common questions asked about real estate law:

Q: What are some of the points that a prospective homebuyer should consider about a potential home?

A: Many realtors answer that the three most important aspects of a home are location, location and location. This means the characteristics of the neighborhood; distance from schools, transportation, hospitals, police and fire protection, utilities, and shopping; quality of street maintenance; zoning; and tax levels.

Other considerations are the house's plumbing and wiring, drainage of the land, the house's location on the lot, construction of the house, and possible termite infestation.

Q: What are the different types of listing agreements that can be made with a real estate broker?

A: A listing agreement is a legal contract that governs such conditions as the broker's fees, the right of the seller to negotiate on his or her own behalf, and terms restricting rights to sell. An open listing contract is a listing wherein the owner lists the property for sale with one broker, but reserves the right to list the property concurrently with as many additional brokers as desired. The seller will owe a commission only to the broker who procures a buyer. Exclusive agency contracts employ one broker as the agent for the property for a definite period of time but also allow the owner to sell directly without an obligation to pay a broker's commission. An Exclusive right to sell contract appoints one broker or as sole agent for a specific period of time and entitles the broker to a commission if a property is sold by any party within the time limits.

Q: What should be stipulated in the sales contract?

A: The sales contract spells out the total purchase price and method of payment, including down payment, financing plans, closing costs and interest charges; what appliances, furnishings, fixtures and other personal property are being sold with the house; which of the parties bears the risk of loss if there is a fire or other disaster before the closing; when the responsibility shifts for payment of utilities and taxes; how taxes are to be prorated for the year during which ownership shifts; guarantees of good title; provisions for either party to cancel the sale; legal description of the property; and, provisions for the return of initial payment in the event the sale is not completed.

Q: Is it necessary for a lawyer to handle the sale or purchase of a house?

A: It is not required that a lawyer prepare the sale contract. However, since this agreement controls all future conduct in the sale, the time to seek expert advice is before the contract is signed. If this is not possible, the buyer or seller can insert on the face of the contract the phrase, "subject to approval of the attorneys for the parties" within a specified number of days.

In most states, only an attorney can prepare other legal documents related to a real estate sale. A single lawyer may represent both parties, with their understanding and consent.

Q: What kind of warranties on the roof, the furnace, appliances, or exterior paint should the buyer demand?

A: The seller probably will limit warranties of these items to avoid being liable for expensive repairs. However, the buyer should ask if warranties still exist on repairs that may have recently been done or on new items, and ask that these warranties be transferred to him or her.

Q: What precautions should the buyer take to be sure that title is conveyed without any problems?

A: The buyer will want to assume a title that is "marketable," that is, free from all indebtedness or limitations on its use. It is up to the buyer to examine the title. This should be done before the purchase is completed through a title search or examination of the public records by an attorney, who then issues a certificate indicating the findings or supplies a written title opinion.

Q: How do I know if there are limitations on the use of my property?

A: Local governmental zoning laws or restrictions in the deeds may limit the use of your property, for example, for use as a day care center or conversion of a single-family dwelling to a two-family home. You can determine these limitations by finding out the zoning restrictions from the city zoning board and having a lawyer examine deeds and other legal papers.

Q: What is title insurance and does a buyer need to purchase it?

A: If the buyer is obtaining a mortgage loan, the lender will require title insurance in the amount of the loan to protect itself from possible loss. This insurance, however, does not protect the new owner in the event that defects are found in the title. Owner's title insurance insures the new owner's equity in the property. It is optional.

Q: What are the different items that contribute to the total cost of a mortgage loan?

A: —Points. The lender makes a service charge for processing the loan that is expressed in "points." It is a percentage of the amount of the loan, varying from 1½ to 3 percent.

—Appraisal fee. The lender usually will require appraisal of the property, either by an appraiser of the buyer's choice whom it approves or by the bank appraiser. If the appraisal is done by the bank, the fee will be included in the loan.

—Survey cost. A survey of the property may be required by the lender.

—Escrow fees.

—Title insurance.

—Lender's attorney's fee.

Q: What are some of the new "creative financing" methods used that try to overcome high interest rates and high down payments?

A: Many of the so-called "creative financing" methods have been in use in different states for many years; others have only recently been approved by federal law and added to the list of alternative mortgage forms. These include: contract sales, renegotiable rate mortgages, graduated payment mortgage, variable rate mortgage, and contingent interest mortgage. A buyer should be sure that he or she understands every aspect of these non-conventional mortgages before agreeing to one.

Q: How should a buyer take title?

A: Title may be taken by an individual or by two or more parties in joint ownership. If the parties are husband and wife, it is common to take title as joint owners with right of survivorship, so that at the death of one party, title to the entire property vests with the survivor. However, estate taxes should be considered before deciding on this form of ownership.

Q: How does a condominium differ from a cooperative?

A: In a condominium, each owner holds title to his or her unit. With respect to common areas, unit owners may be tenants in common or joint tenants, depending on state law. A cooperative means stock ownership of a multi-unit project where buyer occupies but does not own the unit.

SSC-OLA tennis team finishes regular season with 10-1 record

Led by the inspired leadership of Coaches Myron Labat and Barbara Powell, the SSC-OLA tennis team defeated St. John 3-2 in Varsity tennis action last Thursday to finish their regular season with a spectacular 10-1 record.

This was the second time in two meetings that SSC-OLA defeated defending State Champion St. John. The St. John Eagles were highly favored to repeat as champions, but the hard work and dedication of members of the SSC-OLA tennis team payed off in identical 3-2 victories on both schools' home courts.

SSC-OLA now enters District competition today at the Jeff Davis Jr. College campus. From that point, they will participate in the State Tournament Thursday, May 1 in Jackson.

Coach Myron Labat commented, "Our record reflects many hours of practice and hard work. I especially want to congratulate Sam Morse who has been our most consistent singles player on the A team. He is a very talented and experienced tennis player who also contributed greatly to our success in doubles play."

"In mixed doubles on the A team, David Bourgeois did an outstanding job, while Tom Cook and Steve Bouls played together very well in boys A doubles."

"If we continue to be as consistent as we have been all season long, we have an excellent chance to win the District Tournament at Jeff Davis this Thursday."

The OLA girls, particularly defending State titlist in girls doubles Nicole Montagnet and Monique LeBourgeois, have greatly contributed to the team's overall success. Coach Barbara Powell's leadership was evident throughout the season, as she was always in control and was very adept at recognizing her players' strengths and weaknesses.

Coach Labat also singled out the following players for their contributions to B Team play: Terry LeBourgeois, Marco Lau and Scott Comeaux, Scott Hensgens, Caymen Sinclair and Justin Holmes.

Coach Myron Labat was voted Coach of the Year at the District 8, Classes 1A through 4A, at the district meeting last Monday evening.

Coke Express slates doubleheader at St. Aug field against Slidell

Coke Express, boys under-14 select soccer team, will play two matches Saturday at the St.

Augustine Seminary field against the Slidell Sonics.

The first match begins at 9 a.m. and the second at 11 a.m.

Coke Express, coached by Doug Stovall, is last year's Mississippi Select Champion, and is presently in first place statewide.

In seven contests between the two teams this year, the Sonics have won four and Coke Express three.

Coke's only other loss of the year was to a team from St. Louis, Missouri.

Members of Coke Express chosen from Bay Area Youth Soccer recreational teams are Trey Kidd, Brian Brooks, Travis Thomas and Duncan Matheson.

Coke Express will travel to Jackson the weekend of May 17 to defend their state champion title.

The public is invited to Saturday's matches.

BWYC's Eagan, Kennedy win club-hosted regattas

Bay-Waveland Yacht Club hosted the 1986 Gulf Coast Snipe championship in conjunction with the annual Jourdan River Classic Regatta April 19-20.

Fifteen boats were registered in the Snipe division which sailed in the Bay. Seventeen boats were registered in other divisions which sailed up the Jourdan River and back.

Marc Eagan of BWYC skipped the winning snipe and obtained one first place and two second places.

His crew was Kam Mitchell. Second place went to Buzzy Heausler with crew Gail Heausler. In third place was Hal Galbreath with crew Cheryl Kerr.

Joe Brennan of Southern Yacht Club was the leader in the Sunfish; followed by Geoff Brennan, Renee Dupaquier, Missy Breath, and Wayne Murphy, all of BWYC.

Rod Stieffel of BWYC with crew, Scott Anderson took a first place in club owned Flying Scots.

Larry Taggart of Southern Yacht Club was second and Eric Doyle of Pass Christian Yacht Club was third.

Fourth place went to Bishop Stieffel (BWYC) with crew Peter Breeden and Jennifer Caty. Page Murphy with crew Chip Peterson and Paul Montjoy was fifth.

The PHRF was won by Commodore Basil Kennedy in his boat, Bug A Boo. H. Z. Carter of PCYC was second; Gene Taylor was third; and Chuck Benvenuti finished fourth.

Then the bottom fell out for head coach Rod Herring and assistant coach Jerry Spell.

David Pitalo played the first two games of the season, then after beating Mercy Cross he encountered severe back pain and was lost for the remainder of the season.

Just before District competition could decide a winner, pitcher Mark Logan pulled a muscle in his throwing arm and could not pitch.

Center-fielder Yasin Shabazz broke his jaw in mid-season when hit during batting practice and was lost for the season.

This left Coach Herring with only one pitcher with experience, junior Louis Schuff. Coach Herring, who was a pitcher in his collegiate days at Southern Mississippi, had to develop 8th and 9th graders to complement his pitching staff.

He also had to juggle his starting lineup in an effort to find a winning combination. By the latter part of the season, the Rocks were 4-7 with four games remaining, three of which were District contests against d'Iberville and two against George County.

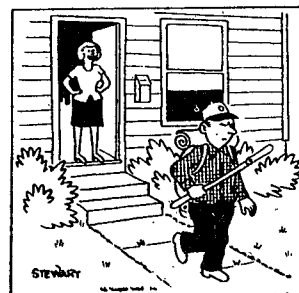

Things then began to come together for the Rocks. Louis Schuff gained confidence on the mound, defeating George County, defeating George County.

Spring motor care tips

Getting where the fish are means having a reliable motor to take you there and back.

You've made a substantial investment in an outboard motor.

It makes good sense to protect it with a preventive maintenance program.

Here, from the service experts at Outboard Marine Corporation, manufacturer of Johnson and Evinrude outboards, are some important steps to follow in getting your motor ready for the 1988 bassin' season.

- Check the lubricant level in the lower unit. Make sure it's filled to the proper level as specified in the owner's manual. If it's been leaking, the lower seals and gaskets may need replacing. If you didn't drain the geargrease and refill it with the manufacturer's recommended solution when you put it up for winter, do so now.

- Check the spark plugs. Make sure the plugs are gapped to specifications. Check the plug terminal connections and wiring and make sure they are clean, unfayed and snug-fitting.

- Check the boat's battery. According to David Wharton, member of the Johnson Outboards pro staff, many fishermen don't take care of their batteries.

"They should always be charged up fully after a fishing trip," Wharton suggests. "If your boat is going to sit there for a week, two weeks, three weeks, you should always charge your batteries up and keep them fully charged while they're sitting. A fully charged battery will always keep a lot better."

Be sure to clean the terminal posts and connectors of any corrosion.

- Check the fuel tank. Make sure that the fuel system clamps and fittings are tight and not leaking. Make sure the fuel lines are not cracked from age or wear, and replace them if necessary.

"In the South, very few people winterize their boat like they do in the North," notes David Wharton. "Lots of boaters in the southern states put their boats up in a stall and let them sit there from November until January."

If they're doing this, they should at least fill their fuel tanks totally full. Putting a boat up with an empty tank or partially filled tank is an invitation for condensation to form in the tank as it warms up, gets cold and warms up again. When February rolls around and fishing season starts, they're going to have lots of trouble with water in their gas!"

If you didn't add fuel conditioner before storage, you'd better clean the fuel pump filter before adding fresh fuel. Most outboard fuel filters are designed for easy cleaning, but be sure to check your owner's manual before you do-it-yourself. Add a good fuel conditioner, like OMC's 2-4 Fuel Conditioner, before filling the tank to help absorb any moisture that may have accumulated during storage.

OMC's 2-4 Conditioner also can be used during the regular fishing season to keep the carburetor clean, to reduce moisture in the fuel system and to minimize plug fouling. Make sure the fuel conditioner you choose is for marine use. Some automotive additives and conditioners can damage your outboard.

- Check the propeller. Check the prop for dings, dents and bends that can cut performance. If it's too far gone for minor home repair take it to a prop shop or be ready to invest in a new one. Stainless steel props offer much greater durability than aluminum propellers.

- Check the point job of the motor. Your motor is in a lot of water. It stands to reason that any paint chips or flaking ought to be repaired to prevent corrosion. Most manufacturers offer factory-matched colors in easy-to-use spray cans. Take care not to paint over the water intake screen or the sacrificial zinc anodes.

Rocks..... CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1B

Mark Logan came back to beat conference leading d'Iberville by pitching a three-hitter.

Dependable Jay Artigues and Jeff Reich began to get on base consistently and with their foot-speed put themselves in scoring position by stealing second and scoring on a base hit.

Now the Rocks are 7-7, with one game remaining against Mercy Cross this past Wednesday evening. Although the score of this contest is too late for press time, the Rocks feel confident they will have a winning season.

For the second year in a row, St. Stanislaus has soundly defeated the District champion but have not themselves become the District champion.

Reflecting on the season, Coach Herring commented, "Yes, we certainly did have a lot of bad breaks early in the season. It's hard to win consistently when we had to juggle athletes at different positions to find that winning combination. But once the boys got used to each other, we started to win. Talent-wise, I feel we can compete with anybody in our district."

"We are losing five seniors, Phil Wittmann, Jeff Reich, Jake Welsh, Mark Logan and David Pitolo. But our nucleus is strong for a fine season next year. I want to thank all our loyal supporters who stuck with us during our hard times. Our future does look bright."

Sports Brief

TEE-BALL REGISTRATION
City of Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds will have registration for Tee-Ball (ages 5-6) and a minor league program will be put in this year, Saturday, April 23, at 10 a.m. and Sunday, April 24, at 2 p.m. at McDonald Field.

There will be a $5 entry fee per player or $10 per family (with two or more players).

The tee-ball program will be conducted as it was last year.

The minor league program will be a program to give the youth some insight of what will be expected of them in the later years. In this program the ball players will hit and pitch to each other. This program will follow Little League rules.

KEEPING FIT

The problem with sports-related chronic knee pain is that it is usually the result of repeated wear and tear from injury to the knee over the years and can't be treated or reversed after the collective damage has been done. The knee eventually becomes a weak link, whereby degeneration has already begun. In this case, pain is largely unavoidable and relief is temporary at best.

With the exception of surgery to mend torn cartilage, ligaments, and tendons, not much can be done, but to exercise prudence. When pain occurs, usually after stressful activity, stop and rest to avoid further damage, and stop participating in the sport that caused the injury. You should not, however, stop exercising altogether. Switch to a sport that causes no pain to your knees, such as swimming, bicycling, rowing, etc. The pain from degenerative arthritis can be alleviated temporarily with aspirin and a cold pack.

If you must continue in a sport which causes you pain, warm up the affected joint with stretching exercises and warm compresses.

When running, the impact of each step is two to three times the body weight; some marathoners face up to 3000 tons per pace. It is the knees that act as shock absorbers for all that weight, and you should try to take as much of their job away from them as possible. Always wear good-quality running shoes to cushion the impact. Also, find a surface that gives a little and partially absorbs impact. Running on grass is better than on concrete. Indoor basketball on wood floors is better than outside on asphalt. Football on grass is better than on astroturf. (Major league teams practice on grass even though they may play on turf.)

Controlling your weight and watching the diet will help too.

Always remember that the more you damage you do to your knees now, the more you will pay for it as you age.

Carey, Pepsi sponsoring 'Volleyball Challenge' tourney

The First Annual Pepsi-William Carey College Volleyball Challenge will be held on Saturday beginning at 1 p.m. The single elimination tournament will be held on William Carey College's Coast Campus, located at 1856 East Beach Drive in Gulfport.

Competition is open to junior and senior high school students who attend a private or public school in Harrison, Hancock, Jackson, or Stone Counties.

A maximum of two teams per high school may participate, and the first two teams to register from each high school will participate.

Teams must consist of a minimum of six players and a maximum of ten, with an equal number of male and female team members.

Cash awards will be presented by the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Gulfport to the top three teams: $200 for first place, $100 for second place, and $50 for third place.

Checks will be written to the Junior/Senior Class Fund for a designated purpose. Members of the winning teams will also receive visors.

The Volleyball Challenge is being held in conjunction with the William Carey College Prospective Student Days to be held April 25 and 26 on the Coast Campus, 1856 East Beach Drive. For more information contact Joe Moore at William Carey College, 865-1500.

Laurel native joins Ocean Springs park staff

Gail Bishop is the new Mississippi district interpreter at Gulf Islands National Seashore at Davis Bayou in Ocean Springs.

Superintendent Jerry Eubanks said Bishop, a native of Laurel, joined the National Park Service in 1975 after graduating from the University of Southern Mississippi with a bachelor's degree in geography.

Her early career included duties as an interpreter at Ford's Theatre

National Historic Site in Washington, D.C. where she presented approximately 1,000 talks on the history of the theatre and the assassination of Abraham Lincoln to a wide variety of audiences.

Her other park service assignments have included Pea Ridge National Military Park, Pea Ridge, Arkansas, and Big Thicket National Preserve in Beaumont, Texas, where she gained a wide variety of interpretive experiences.

As the Mississippi district interpreter, she will be in charge of the day-to-day interpretive programs at the William M. Colmer Visitor Center at Davis Bayou and the interpretive activities out on Ship Island.

"We are pleased to have Gail join our staff and look forward to contributions she will make at Gulf Islands National Seashore," said Eubanks.

USM seminar to eye track coaching problems

HATTIESBURG—The University of Southern Mississippi will sponsor a seminar dealing with special athletic problems in track June 9-27, 1986.

This intensive course will help to improve the quality of track and field officiating. It also may help coaches understand and appreciate the coaching of track and field events.

The course will deal with all aspects of meet organizations as well as training fundamentals and techniques. Coach Marshall Bell, an assistant professor of athletic administration and coaching at USM, will be the instructor.

Participants will receive three semester hours of graduate credit for AAC 674 Special Athletic Problems - Track, which may be applied toward a master's degree or used for teaching certification or renewal.

Registration must be completed on or by June 9, 1986. Participants may register in Room 306 in McLemore Hall during any of the following times: Mondays-Fridays, 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Saturday, June 7, 9:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m.; or Monday, June 9, 8 a.m.-9 a.m. in the lobby of McLemore Hall.

Formal classroom sessions will run from Monday, June 9, through Friday, June 13. Classes will meet from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. daily. Other course activities including outside projects approved by the instructor will be scheduled within the allotted course time.

The tuition fee for three semester hours of graduate credit is $162. Full fees may be paid in advance, and a $25 pre-registration deposit is required.

University housing may be available for intensive course participants, with several options being offered, including those for couples and families.

For more information, contact the University of Southern Mississippi Division of Lifelong Learning, Southern Station Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39406-5056, or call (601) 266-4190.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

The City of Waveland, Mississippi, is considering applying to the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, Department of Community Development, for a Small Cities Community Development Block Grant of up to $750,000. The State of Mississippi has been allocated approximately 21 million dollars that will be made available to cities on a competitive basis to undertake eligible community development activities. These funds must be used for one of the following purposes:

1. To benefit low and moderate income persons; or
2. To aid in the prevention or elimination of slums or blight; or
3. To meet other community development needs having a particular urgency because existing conditions pose a serious and immediate threat to the health or welfare of the community where other financial resources are not available to meet such needs.

The activities for which these funds may be used are in the areas of housing, public facilities and economic development. More specific details regarding eligible activities, program requirements, and the rating system will be provided at a public hearing which will be held at Waveland City Hall, Tax Office, 301 Coleman Ave., on May 6, 1986, at 7 P.M. The purpose of this hearing will be to obtain citizen input into the development of the application.

East is East and West is West — and knowing how to orient yourself in the outdoors is the best direction of all.

What is orienteering? It's different things to different people depending upon your needs. You can become oriented to a new school, a new community, a new way of life. For the outdoorsperson, orienteering can well be a matter of saving your life. Knowing where you are and how to get somewhere else quickly, effectively and safely is often a matter of knowing how to read both natural and man-made signals. And, it can also be an exciting sporting competition.

In nature, watch for the most obvious (but all too often overlooked) warning signs of changing conditions. It may get colder earlier than you expected. Storm clouds may be gathering. A lightning flash over the hill could signal an electrical storm about to break over your head. Watch for important signs along your path that will be familiar markers on your return. Sometimes all jutting rocks may start to look alike, so note areas in which they lie.

Man-made signals are involved in the mastery of certain measuring devices such as compasses, maps, watches, etc. The rise of competitive orienteering has given impetus to development of maps of varying scales. Most of us are familiar with the United States topographic maps of 1:62,500 which meant one inch on the map roughly translated to one mile of actual distance. Today, maps may be as varied as 1:15,000 which would allow for the inclusion of details previously left off smaller scaled maps. This means that that jutting rock or overhanging boulder may become part of a map, not just a segment of your memory.

Map-making is still pretty tedious work, much of it accomplished by patient footwork. However, photographs taken from airplanes and, increasingly, by satellites, are helping the foot-trekker find those elusive markers.

The sport of orienteering itself was popularized in the United States and Canada by the Swedish orienteering family named Kjellstrom who invented the Silva-type compass with the transparent base that many orienteers use.

Many outdoors groups are in contact with orienteering instructors. This November, Bill Shannon's Wilderness Orienteering Camp will hold its second annual mapping camp. No previous experience is required. But students should have, at least, some knowledge on an intermediate level. Contact Shannon at P.O. Box 202, Mahopac, New York 10541; Telephone: (914) 628-7106 for more information. Even if you don't compete, at least you'll learn skills that can take you from here to there in the best way possible.

St. Stanislaus names valedictorian, salutatorian

Brother Celestine Alge, principal of St. Stanislaus High School, announced that Michael Yarborough has been named the candidate for valedictorian and that David Zanca is the candidate for salutatorian of the 132nd graduating class of St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis.

Commencement exercises will take place on Saturday, May 10, at 11 a.m. in Our Lady of the Sacred Heart Church.

Yarborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Yarborough of Pass Christian, is in his sixth year at St. Stanislaus and is an Alpha Honor Roll student.

He is a member of the President's Honor Roll, the National Honor Society, the Spanish Honor Society, the Math and Science Team, and the school yearbook staff.

He was class president as a sophomore, secretary of the Student Council as a junior, and he scored in the top 10 percent in the state in math in his senior year at the State Science and Math Tournament.

He was a member of the varsity football team for three years and has served as a counselor at Camp Stanislaus.

Yarborough has received a Dean's Honor Grant to Tulane University where he will study medicine.

David Zanca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zanca of Bay St. Louis and he also is completing his sixth year at St. Stanislaus.

He is an Alpha Honor Roll student and was listed on the President's Honor Roll.

He is a member of the National Honor Society, the Spanish Honor Society, the Math and Science Team, and the yearbook staff.

He is vice-president of the Student Council and has served as class officer.

He is a member of the varsity football team and serves as team captain of the track team; and he also has been a counselor at Camp Stanislaus.

Zanca has earned an academic scholarship to Millsaps College where he will study pre-pharmacy.

A thought for meditation from our pastor, Father Lambert Stack, ST: "A man who says his prayers in the evening is a captain posting his sentries, after that, he can sleep."

—Charles Baudelaire

The children of St. Ann - St. John Parish are in the final phase of preparations for receiving their First Holy Communion Sunday, May 11, during 9:30 a.m. at St. Ann Church.

CCD classes at St. Ann's for grades first through seventh will continue until school is dismissed for summer vacation.

Don't clean your hairbrush at the same time you clean your hair. If you brush your hair with a "somewhat" dirty hairbrush, you are putting your own natural oils back into your hair. If your hair is black and your tint is growing out, here's a tip: STRICTLY for an emergency. The spiral brush from your liquid mascara wand will cover rapidly and completely.

NEXT WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) An associate seems to want to know more than you want to tell. Turn the tables. Ask the reasons for this sudden spurt of interest in your affairs.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) If you feel you're being unfairly treated, insist on your rights to a full explanation of the situation. Remember, don't let any bullies cow the brave Bovine.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Harried situations demand unhurried deliberations. Don't let yourself be panicked into making decisions you're not comfortable with. Easy does it is the way to do it.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Your partner wants to smooth things over, but isn't ready yet to be completely candid. Be more flexible. Accept a partial explanation instead of demanding a full confession.

Leo (Jul. 23-Aug. 22) Festive occasions bring cheer to the denizens of the Leonine den. Romances, weddings and other happy experiences help you to enjoy this wonderful period to the fullest.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Opportunity beckons. A chance meeting with an associate from the past enhances your future potential. Follow through on the offer to show what you can do.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Travel plans are changed for the better as someone decides to join your party at the last minute. Overrule those who are resistant to making the necessary adjustments.

Scorpio (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A friend you haven't heard from for some time could benefit by your attempt to make contact. You'll both feel much better after you find each other again.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Romantic reconciliations are in the works for those who have had problems with their relationships. Others can expect unexpected reunions with long-absent friends.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Dispersed family members begin to return to the nest for varying periods. Make these reunions extra memorable. Emphasize all positive aspects; avoid the negative areas.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Creativity is rewarded. Resist the temptation to cut corners. Avoid "borrowing" ideas from other works. Recognition of your originality leads to greater opportunity.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) You find an unexpected source of support when a friend proves loyal in spite of pressures to remain neutral. This act of friendship is in return for a favor you did long ago.

Bay Catholic students compete in annual field day

POTATO RACE—Fourth grader Christine Fagot, left, takes her potato in hand and prepares to turn as classmate Frankie Penton tries to keep from dropping the potato he holds between his knees.

RELAY—Third graders run with their batons as they compete in a relay race during Friday's Bay Catholic Elementary School Field Day.

HIGH JUMP—Charlie Blaize tries his skill at jumping.

PYRAMID—Sixth grade boys from Bay Catholic Elementary School practice their pyramid for a class cheer during the annual Bay Catholic Elementary School Field Day Friday. The field day included competition in sportsmanship, 75-yard dash, baseball throw, sack race, basketball throw, potato race, soccer dribbling, long jump, obstacle course and horse shoes. Sportsmanship trophies were awarded to the third grade class, first place; fifth grade class, second place; and first grade class, third place. Physical Education Instructor Jean Ann Thriffley served as chairperson for the event.

DISTANCE—First grader Scott Schaeffer tries for distance as he competes in the baseball throwing event.

SENSITIVE PARENTING

React rationally to child's misbehavior

By Norine Barnes
Child and Family
Development Specialist
Cooperative Extension Service

Rearing children is a physically and emotionally draining task for any parent, but an experience most mature adults find appealing.

Much of the stress of parenting is caused by our own beliefs and attitudes about how to deal with children and what our role as parents should be.

Often it seems that the moment a child is born, a power struggle begins. Parents all too often believe that the power is in their hands. In reality, the child may be powerful since he does not play fair.

Many children are fanatical about "winning" no matter what the price. For this reason, parents must learn to react calmly and rationally in order to minimize the parent-child conflict and help teach the child to think realistically. When you do this, you are more stable and emotionally self-satisfied. Therefore, you will react more fairly to your child.

When a parent reacts rationally to misbehavior, the child is more likely to respond in a calm and positive way. Whatever the conflict, it should be easier to solve.

Parents may upset themselves by negative self-talk or irrational ideas. These ideas are the perception of an event or fact in life. Adults need to address irrational or negative beliefs by putting them to the test of reality. So often the negative things which happen to us are not catastrophic, but are only frustrating, annoying and inconvenient. You can choose when you will get frustrated, how frustrated and how long it will last.

For example, do you believe that in order to be a good parent you must be approved of by everyone in the family or community? Ask yourself, if this is really possible. If you believe it is, then more than likely you are going to often feel discouraged that you are not a "Super Parent." You will feel you are a failure when you do not get your child's or someone else's approval.

Have you ever thought that you are solely responsible for your child's misbehavior? If so, you are assuming that no one else could have possibly had any part in promoting the child's behavior. This is an irrational belief and you need to correct it.

You as a parent can become more responsible and encouraging not only to your child, but to yourself if you can become aware of your irrational beliefs and set out to change them. It is never too late. Sit down and list your irrational beliefs and what you plan to do to see yourself and your role as a parent in a more realistic and honest light.

When Teachers Revolt

The following article resulted from a grant from the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association.

By Michael Waldrop
Assistant Superintendent
Sensatolia

I stare at the picture on my office wall of the sad eyed bear, sitting on a log, with his head drooped. "Leave me alone," he seems to say, "I'm having a crisis."

Beside the picture of the bear is my picture of a trout attacking a smaller fish. The trout is at peace and happy with himself.

Under the pictures are stacked boxes of computer printouts, the results of my school district's achievement test. I must sort them and get them to the schools so that the teachers can analyze the results and report course modification based on these results. This will take hours of their time.

Stacked beside the boxes are volumes of curriculum scope and sequences. I have to get them to the teacher committees for their review and recommendations. How else can a parent or school administrator know what skills are being taught, in which subjects they are being taught and at what point in time the students are expected to master the skills?

These committees will have to meet after school for a few weeks so that we can get these things finalized. We're behind now in this area.

Piled on my desk are epistles of instructional management plans. I have to finish reviewing these plans so that the teachers can make the necessary changes in the objectives, activities, and test questions.

If we extend the teacher's day every Thursday to 4:30, they should be able to complete the plans before the state review committee checks them.

Boxes of reading, English, math, and spelling books cover one complete side of my large office. It is time for book adoption in these subjects, and maintenance should have been here yesterday to take the books to the various schools. How can the Textbook Adoption Committee review the books if they are sitting in my office?

I view the staff development plans stacked on my filing cabinet. All teachers are required to participate in 30 hours of staff development and complete assignments and follow-through assignments.

These assignments are time consuming but should help the teachers. They may have to do them on the weekends because they can't take any time away from teaching, and their time after school is pretty much full.

The bear reminds me of our American Government teacher. Just yesterday she was in my office, almost in tears. It seems the new regulations brought on by performance-based accreditation were getting her down.

Performance-based accreditation means that teachers are responsible for how well students perform on tests.

Students are expected to master a high percentage of the course objectives, and teachers must keep track of how well each student does on each objective.

Of course, to generate this data takes hours, and to keep track of it is a bureaucratic nightmare.

All I could tell the teacher was that maybe things will be better once we computerize our instructional management. I didn't have the heart to tell her that I had no idea where the money would come from to buy the computers.

The industrial arts teacher says he is going to quit after this year. We lost a good senior English teacher and physics teacher last year. They loved kids and teaching, but they said that they were burned out.

I think that, like the bear, teachers just want to be left alone.

VIP—Volunteers: Important People

The quality of a 4-H program is related directly to the important people working with boys and girls in that program.

Volunteers in 4-H make the difference. It is the volunteer who shares that special skill or hobby such as needlecraft or woodworking. It is a volunteer who inspires a 4-H member to try one more time to make a speech, give a visual presentation or develop a talent act.

It is a volunteer who recruits another volunteer to share those good feelings that come from seeing the joy of accomplishment on the face of a 4-H'er who finally got that seam straight.

It is a 4-H volunteer who sees the miracle of cooperation and dedication as a group of young people develop and carry through plans for meeting a special community need. It is a volunteer who sees a young person move from shyness and self-consciousness to a confident leader.

The volunteer helps 4-H'ers gain success in project work and encouragement from parents and other 4-H members. It is the volunteer who is so strained by all the questions, so tired from the meetings, so pressured from the schedules, so admired by the community, so valued by the parents, so loved by the members, and so satisfied from having tried and knowing the task was worthwhile.

The person who makes the difference in the lives of the young people enrolled in 4-H is that special volunteer.

Awards for 4-H programs are made possible by the generous support of community-minded individuals. Many volunteers are donors. Some adults serve as advisory council members by helping plan and conduct county programs.

Volunteer to be a 4-H club advisor and organize a 4-H club. Those with less time to share can be project leaders and work with 4-H'ers in a specific area. There are more than 40 projects to choose from. Be a recruiter. Help find more people to fill the many jobs for volunteers.

Working with young people brings challenges and great satisfaction. Find a place in the 4-H program and make a commitment to help youngsters develop to their highest potentials. Be a 4-H volunteer.

Redgrave to appear at UNO in role of UNICEF chair

Actress Lynn Redgrave, National Mother's Day chairperson for UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Relief Fund), will speak Monday, May 5, at 10:30 a.m. in the ballroom of the University of New Orleans University Center.

She will discuss UNICEF's World Immunization Campaign, which is supported by the sale of UNICEF Mother's Day cards. Goal of the program is to immunize every child on earth by 1990.

Ms. Redgrave will also appear at D.H. Holmes stores at Lakeside and Lake Forest shopping malls during the day Saturday, May 3, and at a UNICEF fund raiser that night from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the New Orleans Museum of Art (NOMA). New Orleans is the final stop in a five-city promotional tour by Redgrave on behalf of UNICEF.

The UNO program, which is free and open to the public, is sponsored by UNO's Campus Activities Board and the New Orleans Area Committee for UNICEF. Anyone wishing to attend the fund raiser at NOMA ($15 per person) should contact the local UNICEF office, 866-5832.

Hancock County 4-H'ers participate in State Land Judging Contest

Jim Eastridge, Rhett Ladner and Drew Smith represented Hancock County recently in the State Land Judging Contest held in Philadelphia.

They participated in three workshops designed to teach them about texture, permeability, depth, slope, erosion, runoff, highest land use and land capability classes.

They also learned the best vegetative practices, mechanical practices and fertilizer and soil amendments to get the highest use out of soil class while still using the site wisely.

Another part of the contest dealt with homesite evaluation. In evaluating a homesite they had to consider roads and streets, building foundations, septic tanks, landscapes and gardens. This part of the contest will have practical use for everyone.

These three young men felt that through the 4-H Land Judging Contest they had a much better understanding of soil conservation and would be better able to contribute to wise use of our soil in Hancock County.

We would like to thank Doug Stephens of the Soil Conservation Service and Lee Taylor, county agent, for their assistance in training.

COMET WATCH

Due to partly cloudy conditions on April 14, the comet watch was postponed. It has been rescheduled for Friday, April 25, 9 p.m. on the beach in front of Buccaneer Park. If it is cloudy on Friday, the program will be cancelled. I apologize to all the people who turned out on the 14th and I hope to see you on the 25th.

4-H FASHION REVUE

The 4-H Fashion Revue will be held on Tuesday, June 3, at 7 p.m. at an undetermined site.

The Fashion Revue will include contests in Clothing Construction and Clothing Selection as well as Home Environment. Youth who participate will model a garment which they have made in Construction and one which they have purchased in Selection.

They will also judge articles of clothing for quality. Winners will be eligible to participate in the State 4-H Congress at Mississippi State University on June 16-19.

If you would like more information contact Daney Jackson at the County Extension Office, 467-5456.

In order to participate at MSU, you must have enrolled in 4-H between Sept. 1 and April 28.

UNRECOGNIZED PINCHED NERVES

Pinched nerve is a term utilized by the Chiropractic profession describing an irritation disturbance of a spinal nerve. Falls, auto accidents, lifting wrong, may cause a displacement of a spinal bone, which then can pinch nerves and interrupt normal nerve function. Some of the more common complaints that may develop from pinched nerves are: dizziness, headaches, nervousness, pain in the chest, stomach, neck or back. Often, a person may not associate his condition with pinched nerves thus allowing these conditions to go unrecognized until an advanced state of illness develops. A competent Chiropractic examination will lead to early detection and the application of care will aid prompt recovery.

OUTSTANDING—Dr. Joseph S. Paul, a native of Bay St. Louis and son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lee Paul of Bay St. Louis, was presented the "Most Outstanding Student in Administration of Higher Education" award by the College of Education at the University of Alabama at its annual Honors Day held April 10 in Tuscaloosa. This highest honor is conferred upon that student whose record of scholarship, service, and commitment to professional growth reflects most outstandingly the goals of the College of Education at the University of Alabama. A nine year employee of the University of Southern Mississippi, Paul is currently serving USM as dean of student development and assistant to the vice president for student affairs. He completed all requirements of the PhD in administration of higher education from the University of Alabama in December of 1985. Paul is active as a human relations development consultant, speaker and trainer throughout the United States. He received his BS and MS in communication and management from USM.

St. Clare slates first seafood fest

The first annual St. Clare Seafood Festival sponsored by the St. Clare Parish School Board is scheduled for May 23-25 at Our Shopping Center, corner of Auderer Boulevard and US-90, Waveland.

Featured will be fried and boiled seafood, specialty dishes, hamburgers and hot dogs, and refreshments.

Competition includes volleyball, tug-o-war, and sand sculptures, with live bands providing musical entertainment.

Video movies and cartoons, pony rides, spacewalk and castle building also are planned.

The event opens at 10 a.m.

Serving begins at noon each day.

Perk slates science camp

PERKINSTON—A summer science camp for junior high and high school students will be conducted on the Perkinston Campus of Gulf Coast Junior College, beginning Monday, June 16, through Friday, June 20.

Dr. David Schwab, camp director, said the participants will be exposed to subject matter they probably won't cover in high school and have the finest facilities at their disposal.

Subjects to be covered include bacteria and drugs, computers, pollution, evolution, human reproduction, the occult, and ESP.

The program includes lectures, lab work, field trips, and recreation. There is a $98 fee which covers rooms in air conditioned dorms, board, tuition, day and night supervision and use of the tennis courts, miniature golf, swimming pool, and student center.

Deadline for applications is Tuesday, June 10. For more information contact Schwab through the Perkinston Campus, 601-928-5211, extension 276.

USM schedules early summer school registration

HATTIESBURG—Students interested in entering summer semester at the University of Southern Mississippi may pre-register on April 22, 23, and May 1.

Summer opportunities at USM include reduced tuition, and lower room and meal costs. No out-of-state tuition is charged for the summer session and classes are smaller, while providing a wide variety of offerings.

The entire registration process will be completed during pre-registration except housing assignment, financial assessments and payment of fees, which will be done on the first day of regular registration.

Pre-registration allows students to select the courses and the time schedule desired prior to regular registration of the student body.

Advisors will be available for counseling and evaluation of credits will be completed for transfer students.

New freshmen and transfer students interested in pre-registration should make an appointment by calling (601) 266-5000 or 1-800-CALL-USM (toll free in Mississippi).

COURT CLERK SEMINAR

John D. Rutherford of Bay St. Louis attended a seminar for state circuit court clerks in Jackson sponsored by the Mississippi Judicial College, a division of the Court Education Program of The University of Mississippi School of Law.

Designed to improve the knowledge and skills of state circuit court clerks, the seminar featured various topics of discussion, including an auditor's report, an Ethics Commission report, a legislative update, state retirement and coping with stress and burnout.

ELEPHANT GAMES—Every year in Northeast Thailand, 150 elephants are gathered together for one of the most spectacular events in the world. 'Elephant Games' celebrates the fun and excitement of a rodeo for domesticated elephants where the animals' trainers and owners can show off the strength, speed, and skills of their pachyderms. The show will air on METV at 10:30 p.m. Monday, April 28.

Sweep those skeletons under the rug and they'll inevitably wind up in the family closet.

Status for the '80s: Owning a wristwatch that has to be hand-wound.

Man is the only animal stupid enough to pay money for thermal underwear so he can survive for three hours outdoors watching a football game.

It's hard to consider gambling to be sinful when all the chips are coming your way.

If you can recall when calls were five cents from a pay phone, you have a remarkable memory for one so ancient.

Another nice thing about the horse: You don't have to remember whether yours runs on leaded or unleaded gas.
